

OUTLINE OF TOPICS

	PAGE
1. The nature and causes of the emotions or passions	422
1a. Emotion in relation to feelings of pleasure and pain	423
1b. Bodily changes during emotional excitement
1c. Instinctive emotional reactions in animals and men	424
2. The classification and enumeration of the emotions
2a. Definitions of particular passions
2b. The order and connection of the passions	425
2c. The opposition of particular emotions to one another
3. The disorder or pathology of the passions
3a. Madness or frenzy due to emotional excess: excessively emotional or emotionally over-determined behavior
3b. Rationalization or the emotional determination of thought	426
3c. Particular emotional disorders: psychoneuroses due to repression
(1) Hysterias	427
(2) Obsessions and compulsions
(3) Phobias and anxieties
(4) Traumas and traumatic neuroses
3d. The alleviation and cure of emotional disorders
4. The moral consideration of the passions	428
4a. The conflict between reason and emotion
(1) The force of the passions	429
(2) The strength of reason or will	430
4b. The treatment of the emotions by or for the sake of reason
(1) Moderation of the passions by reason: virtue, continence, avoidance of sin
(2) Attenuation and atrophy of the passions: the liberation of reason	431
4c. The moral significance of temperamental type or emotional disposition	432
5. The political consideration of the passions
5a. The causes of political association: fear or need	433
5b. The acquisition and retention of power: love or fear
5c. The coercive force of law: fear of punishment	434
5d. The devices of oratory: emotional persuasion
5e. The regulation of art for the sake of training the passions	