

THE GREAT IDEAS from the Syntopicon
HAPPINESS

OUTLINE OF TOPICS

	PAGE
1. The desire for happiness: its naturalness and universality	695
2. The understanding of happiness: definitions and myths	696
2a The marks of a happy man, the quality of a happy life
2b. The content of a happy life: the parts or constituents of happiness	697
(1) The contribution of the goods of fortune to happiness: wealth, health, longevity
(2) Pleasure and happiness	698
(3) Virtue in relation to happiness	699
(4) The role of honor in happiness
(5) The importance of friendship and love for happiness	700
(6) The effect of political power or status on happiness	701
(7) The function of knowledge and wisdom in the happy life: the place of speculative activity and contemplation
3. The argument concerning happiness as a first principle of morality: the conflicting claims of duty and happiness	702
4. The pursuit of happiness
4a. Man's capacity for happiness: differences in human nature with respect to happiness	703
4b. The attainability of happiness: the fear of death and the tragic view of human life
5. The social aspects of happiness: the doctrine of the common good	704
5a. The happiness of the individual in relation to the happiness or good of other men	705
5b. The happiness of the individual in relation to the welfare of the state: happiness in relation to government and diverse forms of government
6. The happiness of men in relation to the gods or the after-life	706
7. The distinction between temporal and eternal happiness
7a. The effects of original sin: the indispensability of divine grace for the attainment of natural happiness	707
7b. The imperfection of temporal happiness: its failure to satisfy natural desire
7c. Eternal beatitude: the perfection of human happiness
(1) The beatific vision	708
(2) The joy of the blessed: the communion of saints
(3) The misery of the damned	709
7d. The beatitude of God	