

THE GREAT IDEAS: IDEA from the Syntopicon
769

OUTLINE OF TOPICS

	PAGE
1. Doctrines of idea	771
1a. Ideas, or relations between ideas, as objects of thought or knowledge: the ideas as eternal forms
1b. Ideas or conceptions as that by which the mind thinks or knows	772
1c. Ideas as the data of sense-experience or their residues
1d. Ideas as the pure concepts of reason: regulative principles
1e. Ideas in the order of supra-human intelligence or spirit: the eternal exemplars and archetypes; the modes of the divine mind
1f. Idea as the unity of determinate existence and concept: the Absolute Idea	773
2. The origin or derivation of ideas in the human mind
2a. The infusion of ideas: divine illumination
2b. The innate endowment or retention of ideas: the activation of the mind's native content or structure by sense, by memory, or by experience
2c. The acquirement of ideas by perception or intuition: simple ideas or forms as direct objects of the understanding
2d. Reflection as a source of ideas: the mind's consideration of its own acts or content	774
2e. The genesis of ideas by the recollection of sense-impressions: the images of sense
2f/ The production of ideas by the reworking of the materials of sense: the imaginative construction of concepts or the formation of complex from simple ideas

- 2g. The abstraction of ideas from sense-experience: the concept as the first act of the mind; the grades of abstraction 775
- 2h. The derivation of transcendental ideas from the three syllogisms of reason
3. The division of ideas according to their objective reference
- 3a. Ideas about things distinguished from ideas about ideas: the distinction between first and second intentions
- 3b. Adequate and inadequate ideas: clear and distinct ideas as compared with obscure and confused ideas 776
- 3c. Real and fantastic or fictional ideas: negations and chimeras
4. The logic of ideas
- 4a. The verbal expression of ideas or concepts: terms
- 4b. The classification of terms: problems in the use of different kinds of terms 777
- (1) Concrete and abstract terms
- (2) Particular and universal terms
- (3) Specific and generic terms: infimae species and summa genera
- (4) Univocal and analogical terms 778
- 4c. The correlation, opposition, and order of terms
5. Ideas or concepts in the process of thought
- 5a. Concept and judgment: the division of terms as subjects and predicates; kinds of subjects and predicates
- 5b. The position and sequence of terms in reasoning 773
- 5c. The dialectical employment of the ideas of reason
- 5d. The order of concepts in the stages of learning: the more and the less general
- 5e. The association, comparison, and discrimination of ideas: the stream of thought or consciousness
6. The being and truth of ideas
- 6a. The distinction between real and intentional existence, between thing and idea: ideas as symbols, or intentions of the mind
- 6b. The nature and being of ideas in relation to the nature and being of the mind 780
- 6c. The agreement between an idea and its object: the criterion of adequacy in correspondence 781
- 6d. Clarity and distinctness in ideas as criteria of their truth
- 6e. The criterion of genesis: the test of an idea's truth or meaning by reference to its origin
- 6f. The truth and falsity of simple apprehensions, sensations, or conceptions: contrasted with the truth and falsity of judgments or assertions