

OUTLINE OF TOPICS

	PAGE
1. Labor in human life	930
1a. The curse of labor: myths of a golden age and the decay of the world
1b. Labor, leisure, and happiness: the servile, political, and contemplative life <sup>1</sup>
1c. The pain of labor and the expiation of sin: the disciplinary and penal use of labor	931
1d. The social necessity of labor and the moral obligation to work
1e. The honor of work and the virtue of productivity: progress through the invention of arts for the conquest of nature	932
1f. The degradation of labor: the alienation of the laborer's work in chattel slavery, serfdom, and industrial wage slavery
2a. The nature of work
2a. The ends of work: the good of the product and the good of the workman
2b. The process of work: the relations of art, hand, machine, and matter	933
3. The kinds of work and the relationship of different types of workers
3a. The differentiation of work according to the human talent or ability required: skilled and unskilled labor; manual and mental work
3b. The differentiation of work according to the social status of the worker: servile and free, menial and honorable work

	PAGE
3c. The classification of occupations by reference to bodily and mental concomitants of the work: healthy and unhealthy occupations; pleasant and unpleasant tasks	933
3d. Types of work distinguished by reference to the manner in which the work is done: solitary and group work; the relation of master-craftsmen and helpers	934
3e. Types of work distinguished by reference to their effect on the increase of wealth: productive and non-productive labor
3f./ The differentiation of work in terms of its relation to the common welfare: socially useful and wasteful or superfluous work
4. The division of labor
4a. The economic causes and effects of the division of labor: its relation to the exchange, production, and distribution of goods and services; its bearing on opulence
4b. The social consequences of the division of labor: the development of classes
4c. The moral aspects of the division of labor: the acquisition of the virtue of art; the attenuation of art by insignificant tasks	935
5. The organization of production: the position of labor in different economies
5a. Domestic or chattel slavery in a slave economy
5b. Serfdom or agrarian peonage in a feudal economy
5c. The wage earner or industrial proletariat in a capitalist economy	536
5d. The condition of the worker in a socialist economy
6. The wages of labor: kinds of wage payments
6a. Labor as a commodity: the labor market
6b. The iron law of wages: the subsistence level and the minimum wage
6c. The distinction between real and nominal wages: variable factors affecting wage levels.
6d. The natural wages of labor and the labor theory of value
7. Economic and political justice to the laborer
7a. Fair wages, hours, and working conditions: labor legislation
7b. The right to property: the ownership of the means of production	937
7c. The consequences of economic inequality or oppression: the class war
(1) The economic determination of antagonistic social classes: slaves vs. free-men; laboring vs. leisure classes; propertyless vs. propertied classes
(2) The organization of workmen and the formation of trade unions to protect labor's rights and interests	"938
(3) The proletariat as a revolutionary class; its revolutionary aims	, r ■
7d. The underprivileged condition of workers: the exclusion of slaves from citizenship; the disfranchisement of the laboring masses
7e. The problem of poverty and pauperism <sup>1</sup> : unemployment and the right to work'
7f. The relation ■ of economic to political freedom or economic democracy
8. Historical observations on the condition of labor : .	-939