

OUTLINE OF TOPICS

| | PAGE |
|---|------|
| 1. The idea of progress in the philosophy of history | 445 |
| 1«. Providence and necessity in the theory of progress: the dialectical development of Spirit or matter; conflict as a source of progress | |
| 1 b . Optimism or meliorism: the doctrine of human perfectibility | |
| 1 c . Skeptical or pessimistic denials of progress: the golden age as past; the cyclical motion of history | 446 |
| 2. The idea of progress in the theory of biological evolution | |
| 3. Economic progress | |
| 3 a . The increase of opulence: the division of labor as a factor in progress | |
| 3 b . The improvement of the status and conditions of labor: the goals of revolution and reform | |
| 3 c . Man's progressive conquest of the forces of nature through science and invention | 447 |
| 4. Progress in politics | |
| 4 a . The invention and improvement of political institutions: the maintenance of political order in relation to progress | |
| 4 b . The progressive realization of the idea of the state | 448 |
| 4 c . The growth of political freedom: the achievement of citizenship and civil rights | |
| 5. Forces operating against social progress: emotional opposition to change or novelty; political conservatism | |
| 6. Intellectual or cultural progress: its sources and impediments | 449 |
| 6 a . Progress in the arts | |
| 6 b . Progress in philosophy and in the sciences | 450 |
| 6 c . The use and criticism of the intellectual tradition: the sifting of truth from error; the reaction against the authority of the past | |
| 6 d . Plans for the advancement of learning and the improvement of method in the arts and sciences | 451 |
| 6 e . Freedom of expression and discussion as indispensable to the progressive discovery of the truth | 452 |