

OUTLINE OF TOPICS

	PAGE
1. The nature of enslavement: the relation of master and slave	783
2. The theory of natural slavery and the natural slave	784
2a. Characteristics of the natural slave: individual and racial differences in relation to slavery
2b. The conception of the natural slave as the property or instrument of his master
2c. Slavery in relation to natural or to divine law
2d. Criticisms of the doctrine of natural slavery	785
3. Slavery as a social institution: the conventionality of slavery
3a. The acquisition of slaves: conquest, purchase, indenture, forfeiture
3b. Laws regulating slavery: the rights and duties of master and slave	786
3c. The emancipation or manumission of slaves: the rebellion of slaves
3d. Criticisms of the institution of slavery: the injustice of slavery; its transgression of inalienable human rights
4. The forms of economic slavery	787
4a. Chattel slavery: slaves of the household and slaves of the state
4b. Serfdom or peonage
4c. Wage slavery: the exploitation of the laborer
5. The political aspect of economic slavery
5a. The disfranchisement of chattel slaves and serfs: their exclusion from the body politic or political community
5b. The political deprivations of the laboring classes or wage slaves: the struggle for enfranchisement; the issue between oligarchy and democracy with respect to suffrage	788
6. Political enslavement or subjection
6a. Slavery as the condition of men living under tyrannical government
6b. Subjection as the condition of men living under benevolent despotism or paternalistic government
6c. The transition from subjection to citizenship: the conditions fitting men for self-government	789
6d. The imperialistic subjection or enslavement of conquered peoples or colonial dependencies
7. The analogy of tyranny and slavery in the relations between passions and reason or will: human bondage	