

OUTLINE OF TOPICS

	PAGE
1. Diverse conceptions of the universe	1131
la. The universe as a living organism: the doctrine of the world soul
lb. The universe as a machine: the system of its moving parts
lc. The universe as an ordered community of beings diverse in kind: eternal law and divine government	1132
2. The universe and man: macrocosm and microcosm
3. The universe and God: divine immanence and transcendence	1133
3a. The unity of God and the world: the distinction between natura naturans and natura naturata
3b. The duality of God and the world: the distinction between Creator and creature
4. The origin of the world: cosmos out of chaos	1134
4a. The denial of ultimate origins: the eternity of the world and its motions without beginning or end
4b. Myths or hypotheses concerning the world's origin by artistic production: the demiurge, the creative ideas, the receptacle
4c. The formation of the world by a fortuitous concourse of atoms
4d. The emanation of the world from the One
4e. The creation of the world ex nihilo	1135
(1) The distinction between creation and motion, generation, and artistic pro- duction
(2) The problem of time and eternity in relation to creation: the conservation of creatures in time
(3) The revelation and dogma of creation: interpretations of Genesis 1; the work of the six days
5. The number of worlds: the uniqueness of this world; the possibility or actuality of other worlds	1136
6. The structure of the world
6a. The parts and places of the world: the uniformity of the matter of the world
6b. The diversity, inequality, and hierachy of things	1137
6c. The rationality or intelligibility of the universe
6d. The goodness and beauty of the universe: its evil and imperfections
7. The space of the world: astronomical theories concerning the size or extent of the universe	1138
8. The end of the world	1139